CARDINAL OF MILAN CHOSEN NEW POPE

History Making Arms Meet Closes

New Pontiff Enthroned; Chooses Title Of Pius XI

LONDON, February 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Cardinal Achille Ratti, archbishop of Milan, was proclaimed elected pope in succession to the late Benedict XV this morning. He has taken the name of Pius XI.

The thousands waiting in front of St. Peter's for the wisp of smoke, which would tell of the election of a new pope or the failure of the Sacred College to reach a decision, gave a mighty shout at 11:33 o'clock when a thin wisp of smoke came from the chimney leading from the sistine chapel. It was then known that the catholic church had once more a duly elected pontiff.

Proceeded To Throne
As soon as the two-thirds vote for Cardinal Ratti had been verified, Cardinal Vannutelli, as dean of the Sacred College, arose and proceeded to the throne of the chosen one, accompanied on either side by Cardinals Loge and Bisleti, respectively deans of the cardinal priests and the cardinal deacons. He was asked in Latin by Cardinal Vannutelli, in accordance with custom, if he accepted the election to be supreme pontiff and the new pope answered with the formal "Since it is the will of God, I must obey."

Then the purple canopies over the throne of the cardinals were let down one by one until only that over the new pontiff remained. This was done to show that the whole sacred college rendered obedience to the new head of the church.

Takes Name of "Pius XI."
Don Vannutelli thereupon asked the new incumbent what name he chose to take during his pontificate, and upon his reply "Pius XI," Monsignor Sinero, secretary of the consistorium, verified his election to the papal chair.

The new pope was then escorted to the audience room within the sistine chapel, where he discarded his cardinal's robes, assisted by the cardinals, and the papal vestments, which had been held in readiness since the opening of the conclave, were placed upon him. These included the white cassock, white surplice, white stockings, red slippers, a red and gold mozzetta and finally the stole of red, bordered with gold.

The pontiff, fully vested, and accompanied by his cardinals, thereupon returned to the throne he had occupied in the sistine chapel.

First Act of Adoration
Then the cardinals, according to their rank, and headed by Vannutelli, made their first act of adoration to his holiness, kissing first his feet and then his hands, after which the pope placed them in embrace and bestowed upon them his first apostolic benediction.

Fishermen's Ring Placed On Finger
The fishermen's ring was placed on his finger and he left the chapel, the whole assembly winding its way through the Sala Ducale and the Sala Regia, along the loggias to the Sala Clementina, the pope's official residence. All along the way he received the homage of the attaches who served during the conclave.

"Gratified Beyond Capacity To Express"

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The address made by President Harding at the concluding session today of the arms conference follows:
Mr. Chairman and Members of the Conference:
Nearly three months ago it was my privilege to utter to you sincere words of welcome to the capital of our republic, to suggest the spirit in which you were invited, and to intimate the atmosphere in which you were asked to confer. In a very general way, perhaps, I ventured to express a hope for the things toward which our aspirations led us. Today it is my greater privilege and even greater pleasure to come to make acknowledgment. It is one of the supreme compensations of life to contemplate a worth while accomplishment.

Offer Thanks of World
It cannot be other than seemly for me, as the representative of the only government circumscribed as to be able to address the conference, to speak congratulations and to offer the thanks of our nation, our peoples, perhaps I dare volunteer to utter them for the world.

My own gratification is beyond my capacity to express.
New Epoch In Human Progress
This conference has wrought a truly great achievement. It is hazardous some times to speak in superlatives and I will be restrained. But I will say, with every confidence, that the faith pledged here today, kept in national honor, will mark the beginning of a new and better epoch in human progress.

Stripped to the simplest fact, what is the spectacle which has inspired a new hope for the world? Gathered about this table nine great nations of the earth—not all, to be sure, but those most directly concerned with the peace of the world.

---HARDING

Expresses War's Utter Futility
With its work characterized by Mr. Harding as "the first deliberate and effective expression of great powers, in the consciousness of peace, of war's futility," the great conference went to its niche of history to await the judgments and developments of the future.

In the great assembly hall of the "Daughters of the American Revolution," where all its open sessions have been held, the delegates of the nine nations assembled marched in turn to a space at the great green baize table and affixed their signatures to the treaties and agreements which are real parts of the structure built to lift from a war-worn world the burden of excessive naval armaments, to promote the peace of the Pacific, to give the new bill of rights to China and to remove from the Far East, particularly the clouds of war.

And as each delegation affixed signatures of the plenipotentiaries, pledging the honor of their respective nations to the good faith of the settlements agreed upon, the great audience expressed the hopes of the world in its loud and prolonged applause.

At the conclusion of the ceremony of signing, President Harding delivered his address formally closing the conference, as he formally opened it a little more than twelve weeks ago.

The president as he read, slowly from his manuscript frequently was halted by bursts of applause. He finished speaking at 11:10 o'clock and then delegates and spectators bowed their heads as a benediction was pronounced.

Praises The Shanting Settlement
There was long applause when President Harding disgressed to say: "While the settlement of the Far Eastern question was not of direct import to the United States, we rejoice in common with the world that understanding has been reached."

As the president named the American delegates and thanked them for their services to the nation, there was applause at the mention of each delegate's name. There was more applause when the president thanked the advisory committee for its services.

At the conclusion of the president's address the entire party stood and applauded while the executive took his seat.

Prays For Era of Good Will
As the applause died away, the Rev. Abernethy stepped forward and pronounced the benediction. "May it be in the heart of every nation and every man," he beseeched, "to hasten the bringing of the era of good will."

The prayer ended, Secretary Hughes rapped with his gavel and announced: "The conference is adjourned sine die."

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The history-making conference on the limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions came to its end today with signing of treaties and a farewell address by President Harding.

Epochal Steps Toward World Peace

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(By Associated Press)—Six complete treaties, two others agreed to in substance, fourteen resolutions and ten separate or joint declarations of national policy comprise the formal and tangible contribution of the arms conference negotiations to history.

By the major agreements of the conference the great powers put a limit on their naval strength in capital ships, abjure submarine warfare against commerce and use of poison gas, give China a new bill of rights, based on territorial integrity and the open door, and set up a new international council to preserve peace in the Pacific. In addition, Great Britain declares her intention to restore Wei-Hai-Wei to China, and Japan hands back Shantung and promises to withdraw from Siberia as soon as conditions there are stabilized.

These are the six treaties which, during the twelve weeks of negotiations here, have been brought to final completion:

1. Naval limitation treaty, by which the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy agree to scrap or convert 68 capital ships, and so limit future construction that, after a ten-year building holiday, their line naval strength will remain at 325,000 tons, 325,000 tons, 315,000 tons, 175,000 tons and 175,000 tons, respectively.

The respective tonnage of airplane carriers is limited to 135,000 tons each for the United States and Great Britain, 81,000 tons for Japan, and 60,000 tons each for France and Italy. Individual capital ships are to be no larger than 35,000 tons and carry no guns in excess of 16 inches. Aircraft carriers are limited similarly to 27,000 tons and auxiliary craft to 10,000 tons, and neither can carry a gun larger than eight inches.

A fortification "status quo" is set up in the Pacific, under which the United States agrees not to further fortify the Philippines and Guam, and Japan agrees to observe the same restriction in Formosa, the Bonins and the Pescadores.

2. The submarine and poison gas treaty, by which the same five powers agree as among themselves not to use submarines "as commerce destroyers," in all cases to observe the rules of visit and search, and to regard as a pirate any submarine commander who violates existing law. As among themselves, they outlaw use of poison gas altogether.

3. The four power Pacific treaty, by which the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France agree to respect one another's rights in relation to their insular possessions in the Pacific, and to meet in consultation whenever those rights are threatened. The Anglo-Japanese alliance is automatically abrogated when the new treaty finally is ratified.

4. The general Far Eastern treaty, between the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands, binding each of them to respect China's integrity, the open door policy is to be applied in detail, and every opportunity is to be given the Chinese people to develop a stable government. It is agreed that no treaty infringing these principles is to be concluded, that no contracts violating them are to be upheld, that discriminatory practices in the Chinese railways are to end, and that China's rights as a neutral are to be respected in future wars.

5. The Chinese tariff treaty, adopted by the same nine nations, providing international machinery for an immediate revision of Chinese customs duties on a basis of five percent, effective, and periodical reviews thereafter together with changes which will permit imposition of surtaxes.

6. The Shantung treaty, between Japan and China, by which Shantung is restored to Chinese control. (Continued on Page Six)

Parley Over Boundary

LONDON, Feb. 6.—(By the A. P.)—Negotiations on the Irish situation arising from the boundaries question and other points in the Anglo-Irish treaty were resumed today at Premier Lloyd George's official residence. The conference lasted an hour and a half, but up to noon no intimation was given as to whether an agreement had been reached on the questions discussed.

Body Thrown Under Ice

AKRON, O., February 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Professional divers were brought here today to aid police in the search for the body of Russell L. Palmer, 20, Akron club man, believed to be under the ice in the Gorge Dam, where it was thrown following a hold-up and robbery early yesterday.

Attempts by city firemen to locate the body through dragging and dynamiting failed yesterday. Palmer's car was found jammed against the Gorge bridge railing early yesterday. Scattered keys and thrown clothing gave evidence of a fight. A broken windshield led police to believe that the robbers had hurled a stone into the car to force Palmer to stop. A jagged hole in the ice under the bridge strengthened the theory that the body had been thrown into the river.

Palmer was returning from the Meadowbrook Country Club, of which he was secretary, with the proceeds of a Saturday night dance.

He was the son of former state Senator T. J. Palmer, married, and the father of a 16 months old daughter.

SEEK NEW CLUES IN THE TAYLOR MURDER MYSTERY

LOS ANGELES, CAL., February 6.—(By the Associated Press)—Jealousy, police and private detectives reported today, has directed search for a prominent young New York man, formerly engaged to one of the beautiful stars of filmdom, in connection with the shooting last Wednesday night of William Desmond Taylor.

This suspect was reported today to have checked out of a hotel here on the day the murder was committed and left the city the following afternoon. He is believed by investigators to have headed for San Diego and possibly crossed the border into Mexico. His name is withheld by the police.

The actress to whom this suspect was at one time engaged, according to investigators, was a close friend of the slain director and in this friendship investigators say, they see a possible motive of jealousy which would lead to the murder.

Letters written by Mabel Normand to Taylor, reported missing following the murder and evidence concerning the presence for six months at least of a woman's silk pique night gown in the luxuriously appointed bachelor apartment, today added interest to the case.

Investigators were reluctant to discuss the woman's night gown and a bit of mystery attaches to it, for Henry Deaver, the negro houseman of Taylor, told of his presence in the house until the night of the murder. Where it is now is a police mystery. They will not discuss it, but reports are that it disappeared with the letters.

The early hours today found deputy sheriffs, municipal detectives and officials of the Mollon Picture Company, by which Taylor was employed, gathered in the dead director's apartment, again sorting over his letters and documents, seeking for an elusive something, overlooked before, that might set them straight upon the trail of his slayer.

This comparative setback followed a day and night of manual activities in search of a solution to the enigma.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a cross, feverish, bilious, or constipated child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile, and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! you must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poison from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, head aches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people. It puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, loins, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollows from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

Man Is One Of God's Creatures

A Creature is any person or thing that is made out of nothing. We are creatures of God, composed of body and soul, and made to the image and likeness of our Creator. This likeness is chiefly in the soul which is a spirit that can know, love, and obey God. The soul will never die. God made us that we might know, love and serve Him in this world, and be happy with Him in heaven for ever.

The play that created a Broadway sensation, and bore Elsie Ferguson back to the stage for the greatest dramatic triumph of her career.

A drama of life's master emotion—its daring, its pain, its ecstasy, its terrible power to drag down, its sacred power to glorify.

A romance of love and music, youth and fame, dressed in silks, basking in luxury, but touching at times the underworld haunts of those who have lost the fight.

Pastor Collapses After Baptismal Rites

Rev. J. E. Shreeves of Cedar Street Christian church shortly after reaching his home Sunday afternoon after baptizing 26 converts in the Ohio river, suffered a severe attack of nerve exhaustion and is now threatened with pneumonia. He lapsed into a state of coma Sunday afternoon after taking the last of his converts, and has been unable to talk to anyone at his bedside. It was first thought that he had developed double pneumonia as the result of walking home from the river in his wet clothes. He was changing clothes at his home when he suffered a fainting spell and had to have the attention of a physician.

Dr. A. B. Mills was called and it was found that Rev. Shreeves was suffering with complete nerve exhaustion, his work in the Ohio river in the afternoon being too great a strain on him.

He is about forty years of age. He recently held a stirring revival in New Boston and yesterday was expected to immerse in the Ohio river at the foot of West avenue, New Boston, a class of at least fifty converts. Only 26 were present for the baptismal services and this number was taken care of by Rev. Shreeves who did not rest from his labors until the 26th had been immersed.

Rev. Shreeves filled the pulpit at the First Baptist church, Gallia and Waller streets, last week during revival services.

Falls Beneath Wheels Of N. and W. Train

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 6.—A fatal accident occurred Saturday in front of the N. and W. passenger station when John W. Henderson of Superior, Wis., fell beneath a moving freight train and his body was severed, death being almost instantaneous.

Mr. Henderson is a brother-in-law of Mr. Rose Letourneau, who is employed as crane-man by the company constructing the fronton-russell bridge and was visiting Mr. Letourneau at the time of the accident. The two had been conversing shortly before Mr. Henderson's death and the latter had expressed his intention of going to Portsmouth to look for employment. It is said that the victim heard the freight and fell beneath the wheels. A number of cars passed over the body, which was badly mangled. The victim was 47 years of age.

Pictures Of George D. Scudder Presented

Yesterday morning the First Presbyterian Bible School received a gift which they will highly prize. It is a large portrait of the late George D. Scudder, for over twenty years the dearly beloved superintendent of the school. The portrait is a beautiful piece of work, and it brought many expressions of pleasure, during the day because it was so lifelike.

The picture was the gift of Mrs. George D. Scudder, and was presented with a touching little speech by his grandson, Charles D. Scudder, Jr. Acceptance on behalf of the school was made in a feeling way by the new superintendent, Wm. H. Schwartz, and by the pastor, Rev. D. C. Boyd.

The picture was hung on the front wall of the school, just where its members can see him as they pass into the church. Its position is singularly appropriate, for through many years Mr. Scudder was noted for the energy and success with which he helped pupils in the school to find their way into the life and fellowship of the church, he loved and served so faithfully and well.

Bennett Is Ill

Deputy Sheriff Frank Bennett is ill at his home, 1536 Sixth street with a severe bilious attack. He was taken ill while on duty Saturday night and was forced to go home but his condition was a bit improved Monday morning.

Rev. J. E. McGuirk, pastor of Holy Redeemer church, is suffering with a heavy cold.

Believe Law Is Not Right

George Huff, Illinois athletic director, who has been devoted to baseball for years, has the same idea that some Ohio people hold in regard to rules applicable to students who want to play the game in the summer vacation period. "I am of the opinion," Huff is quoted as saying, "that the Western Conference laws about summer baseball are not right." As they stand here in Ohio and elsewhere they are dandy measures for making more or less students subscribe to false statements.

SHED FIRE

A blaze of unknown origin which was discovered in a shed at the rear of the home of Frank Hust, 916 Third street about ten o'clock Sunday forenoon caused an alarm to be turned in and sent the companies from two fire stations to the scene. The flames were quickly extinguished and the damage was slight.

Autoists Had Close Call

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 6.—Walter McCormick, well known yardmaster at the C. & O. yards at Russell, and two women narrowly escaped death about 10 o'clock last evening when he backed his Nash Six touring car off the edge of the fronton ferry boat. The progress of the car was stopped by the body of the machine jamming against the boat, which saved the lives of the occupants of the car. The car stood for four hours in this position, with the back wheels extending over the water, before being removed and automobile traffic was completely discontinued during this period, the ferry being able to anchor only at the lower end, which enabled the pedestrians to board the boat. Mr. McCormick had come across on the boat and had started up the hill and stalled. The boat left at this time, and he, in backing for a new start, misjudged the distance and ran off the boat.

In Local Hospital

Mrs. Minda Godfrey of Oak Hill was brought to Schirman hospital Sunday evening for an operation. She has been seriously ill three days with pains in her side and it is feared she has appendicitis. Mrs. Godfrey was brought to this city in Richards' ambulance. Mrs. Hurrel Duhamel, 812 Gilliland street, and niece, Miss Gladys Duhamel, made the trip to Oak Hill and return. Mrs. Godfrey is a sister of Mrs. Duhamel.

CHAPTER XVI

TOM Sanders working on afternoon tower at Jackpot Number Three, the lean, tanned drifter in charge of operations was wise with an uneasy knowledge the newcomer could not follow. For eight hours at a stretch he stood on the platform and watched a greasy cable go slipping into Jed Burns, superintendent of operations, though he would never have admitted it.

He was sifting sand through his fingers when Dave came. To Bob Hart, present as Crawford's personal representative, he expressed an opinion.

"Light soon now or never. Sand tastes like looks, and smells like oil. But you can't ever be sure. An oil prospect is like a woman. She will or she won't, you never can tell which. Then, if she does, she's liable to change her mind."

Dave sniffed the pleasing, pungent odor of the crude oil sands. His friend had told him that Crawford's fate hung in the balance. Unless oil flowed very soon in paying quantities he was a ruined man.

After his shift was over, he rode to town with Bob.

"Got to look for an engineer for the night tower," he explained as he drew up in front of the Gusher saloon.

The place hummed with the turbulent life that drifts to every wild frontier on the boom. Faro dealers from the Klondike, poker dealers from Nome, roulette croupiers from Leadville, were all here to reap the rich harvest to be made from investors, field workers, and operators.

Bob found his man at a faro table. While the cards were being shuffled, he engaged him to come out next evening to the Jackpot properties.

While Dave was standing close to the wall he caught sight of Steve Russell.

"The copperhead looked up and waved his hand."

Bob joined them. After a moment's conversation Russell drew them to a corner.

"Say, you heard the news, Bob?"

"I can tell you that better after I know what it is," returned Hart with a grin.

"The stage was held up at Cottonwood this morning and robbed of $17,000. The driver was killed."

"Whose money was it?"

"Brad Steelman's pay roll and a shipment of gold for the bank."

"Any idea who did it?"

"That's what I want to tell you. Two men were in the job. They're whispering that Ed Crawford was one."

"Crawford? Some of Steelman's men work in that tunnel. I'll bet. That's the dumbest talk. What evidence does he claim?" demanded Hart.

"Em deposited ten thousand with the First National to pay off a note he owed the bank. Rode into town right straight to the bank two hours after the stage got in. Then, too, seems one of the hold-ups called the other one Crawford."

"A plant," said Dave promptly.

"They claim the second man was Dave here."

"What time did you say this hold-up took place?"

"Must 'a' been about eleven."

"Let's Dave out. He was fifteen miles away, and we can prove it by at least six witnesses."

"Good. I reckon Em can put in his alibi, too."

"I'll bet he can," Hart promised, eyes with conviction.

"Where is Crawford now?" asked Hart.

"He hasn't been arrested, has he?"

"Not yet. But he's been watched."

"We'd better go to his house and look with him," suggested Hart.

"Maybe he can give us good alibi you, Dave."

"You and I will go straight there," decided Sanders.

Ja. Dave opened the door to the knock of the young men. At sight of them he face ill.

"Oh, I'm so glad you've come!" she cried, tears in her voice. She caught her hands together in a convulsive little gesture.

Her father was sitting in a big chair, one leg thrown carelessly over his arm. He was smoking a cigar composedly.

"Come in, boys," he called. "Rock on you've heard that I'm a stage rustler and a murderer."

"Just now," said Dave. "They didn't arrest you?"

"Not yet. Sit down, and I'll tell it to you."

He had gone out to see a home-stender about doing some work for him. On the way he had met Johnson and Purdy, near the Bend, just before he had turned up a draw leading to the place in the hills owned by the man whom he wanted to see.

Two hours had been spent riding to the little valley where the neighbor had built his camp, and his big house, and when Crawford arrived neither he nor his wife was at home. He returned to the road, without having met a soul since he had left it, and from there jogged on back to town. On the way he had fired twice at a rattlesnake.

"You never reached the Bend then, at all," said Dave.

"No, but I can't prove I didn't."

The old gentleman looked at the end of his cigar thoughtfully. "Nor I can't prove I went out to Dick Green's place in that three-four horse for accounted for."

"Anyhow, you can show where you got the ten thousand dollars you paid the bank," said Bob hopefully.

A moment of silence; then Crawford spoke. "No, son, I can't tell either."

"Faint and breathless with surprise, Dave looked at her father with dilated eyes. "Why not?"

"Because the money was loaned me on those conditions."

"But—but don't you see, Dad?"

"If you don't tell that."

"They'll think I'm guilty. Well, I reckon they'll have to think it, Jay."

The steady gray eyes looked straight into the brown eyes of the girl. "I've been in this country boy and man for most fifty years. Any one that's willing to think me a cold-blooded murderer at this date, why, he's welcome to hold any opinion he pleases. I don't give a damn what he thinks."

The best explanation I can give, is to find out who held up the stage and killed Tim Harrison. It's the only one that will satisfy my friends."

Some one was rapping on the front door imperatively. The girl opened it, to let into the hall a man in greasy overalls.

"Where's Mr. Crawford?" he demanded excitedly.

"Here. In the sitting-room. What's wrong?"

"Wrong? Not a thing. He talked as he followed Jove to the door of the room. Except that Number Three's come in the biggest gusher even I see. She's knocked the whole superstructure galley-west."

Emerson Crawford leaped to his feet, for once visibly excited.

"What?" he demanded. "What's that?"

Physician's Statement Is Directed To Working People

John Quincy Adams, M. D.

Able-bodied people are in demand. Let Peppen rid you of nervous dyspepsia, pains in the back, headache, constipation and other ills that arise from a general run-down condition of the stomach, kidneys and liver.

Peppen, the great family tonic, has converted many a weakling into an able-bodied person, and placed them in the great industrial procession. It has given workmen strength to win promotion. It has made business men more energetic. It has turned the wheels of industry and made high wages for an army of workers when otherwise they would have had to "lay off."

Perhaps no testimonial ever given demonstrates the value of Peppen any more than that recently given by Doctor John Quincy Adams, 506 E. Fifth street, Dayton, Ohio. Dr. Adams is thoroughly competent to give advice in regard to medicine. He is a practitioner of over forty years' experience. Formerly he was professor of chemistry in the Cincinnati, Ohio, College of Medicine and Surgery. He says about Peppen:

"I tried Peppen myself because I was in a run-down condition and needed something to build up my strength. Ever since the epidemic of influenza several years ago I hadn't felt right. I was nervous and easily fatigued."

"In a short time after taking Peppen, I felt stronger in every way. I was so pleased with the results in my case that I prescribed it to a number of my patients suffering with similar affections. In each and every case the results were satisfactory."

"In my opinion Peppen is the best general tonic I ever used. I am glad to recommend it."

Peppen may be obtained in Portsmouth at the Fisher and Streich Pharmacy and at other first class pharmacies.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Changes in the revenue law are of material benefit to the average family man. Under the revenue act of 1921 a married person, living with wife or husband, whose net income for 1921 was $4,000 or less, is allowed a personal exemption of $2,500. Under the revenue act of 1918 the exemption allowed a married person was $2,000 regardless of the amount of net income.

The normal tax rate is the same, 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income above the exemptions, and 8 per cent on the remaining net income. Given his personal exemption of $2,500, plus $100 for each dependent, a married man with three children will pay this year on a net income of $4,000 a tax of $12. On the same income for 1921 he would have paid a tax of $56.

Every citizen and resident of the United States must determine for himself whether his income for 1921 was sufficient to require that a return be filed. Full instructions for making out a return are contained in the forms, a copy of which will be sent to tax payers who filed a return last year. Failure to receive a return, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file a return on time, on or before March 15, 1922. Forms may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue and branch offices.

REV. BOYD WILL ASSIST PASTOR

Rev. D. C. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, left Monday for North East, Pa., a suburb of Erie, where he will assist the pastor of the Presbyterian church in evangelistic services for the next two weeks. Mr. Boyd goes at the request of the Evangelistic Committee of the General Assembly of his denomination for this special service.

During his absence the pulpit will be supplied by the Rev. William H. Ghisler, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Goshen, Indiana, an old seminary friend of Mr. Boyd's. He will be a guest at the Mause between Sundays.

Sings A Song That Sets
Sewing Machines A-Humming

For Dressmakers and women who design their own costumes, a visit to this store during Home Sewing Week will be a pleasureable experience. The new patterns point out the most attractive spring styles and the variety of new fabrics, silks, cottons, woollens and white goods, suggest the most fashionable materials in which to interpret them. The trimmings, notions, finishings and findings, on which so much of a costume's distinctiveness depends, are all to be found here in pleasing assortments.

February, The Time For Home Sewing

With the advent of February, the usual month for so much staying at home, owing to the weather, the womanly hand usually turns to the task of home sewing. What a splendid time and opportunity to get the family spring sewing out of the way. This store offers helps and suggestions to accomplish these results.

The Beginning Of Our Annual Instruction
Classes In Sewing and Dressmaking

Beginning tomorrow, Tuesday, and continuing until further notice, we will conduct free classes in sewing and dressmaking on our second floor under capable directions. These classes have been so successful in the past that it is with a great deal of pride that we announce them again. Come and enroll and inquire about the particulars. If you are at all handy with a needle, you can, at these classes, produce some attractive garments for yourself and family (Suits and Coats excluded). It is natural that we require the purchases of all materials to be made here at the store where splendid selections await you. Otherwise, everything is free.

Classes will be held every day from 9 to 11 A. M. and from 2 to 4 P. M. but it will be necessary for you to come and enroll in a certain class and then you can be accommodated at that time only.

Take advantage of this opportunity to do your spring sewing under competent instruction and amid splendid surroundings.

Winter Coats At Half Price.

We just have a small lot of women's winter coats in cloth and plush and to close them out in a hurry, the prices have been marked at just one-half. This, of course, means one-half of the original price and not one-half of a specially high, fictitious marking to make the reduction seem heavy.

These coats, as might be expected, are splendid models, very desirable and range in values from $32.00 to $47.00. Beginning tomorrow, you can have your choice for just half price.

BOY HIT BY AUTO; IS BADLY HURT

Ray Mitchell, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mitchell of 1111 Spring street, suffered serious injuries about 11 o'clock Sunday morning when he was knocked down and run over by a touring car driven by Albert Brant of 2220 Grand view avenue. Young Mitchell suffered severe bruises about the face and about the abdomen.

He had attended Sunday school and started to cross the street in front of the church when he was hit by a headlight knocked the boy down and that two

Brant applied the brakes and had side of the church and was in the path of the machine before Brant could stop the car. Charles Conklin was an eye witness to the accident and he says that a headlight knocked the boy down and that two brought the machine to a halt while in a few feet of the prostrate boy.

He picked the young man up and took him to the office of Dr. Carl Bramlin where an examination showed no bones broken. A terday when the lad vomited several times it was thought that he suffered serious internal injuries but this morning his condition appeared much better and he was able to take a little nourishment.

yourself at the same time you are seeking enjoyment. The more you study and read now, the more interesting you will be later on to others.

Dear Dolly—I have been going with a blonde headed man for over a year but our parents are against us taking. It will break my heart to quit him now. What shall I do?

Perhaps you could go together with him and talk to him. If your parents are against you going together they should have put a stop to it a year ago. That is the trouble with most parents—they let their daughters go with a man until they are ready to get married and then they think they can put a stop to it. The time to stop a love affair is before it starts.

Dear Dolly—Some years ago I married a good looking girl, one my men should be proud of. In all these years she has improved. I am proud of her appearance and tell her so. I am crazy about her, but she doesn't care for me. She says she never did care for me—that I am mean and despicable. That all my folks are the same way and that she knew it before she married me. She finds fault with everything I do and tries to make me over, and make a fool of me before everybody. I have done all I can to please her. I bought a new modern home for her but she says it is far from being a home. She seems to enjoy being miserable and certainly enjoys making others miserable. I cannot endure this life. If it wasn't for my child I would do something desperate. I think I will take a business trip west and it will be a long one. I have several routes in mind that will take me across the river which one shall I take Dolly?

DESPERATE MAN.
Take a genuine business trip without traveling any of the routes you mentioned. You must live for the sake of your child. A vacation will give you temporary relief. After your wife has enjoyed your absence for a few weeks she will be glad to have you come back. Try the experiment anyway. Life has been made particularly hard for you. Nevertheless, you must play the game and do the right thing as nearly as you know how, regardless of the actions of other people.

SWEET SIXTEEN—It would be all right for you to read the books you mentioned. If you did so with your mother's consent and with the right attitude. They should be read for knowledge and spiritual good and not in order to excite the imagination and to furnish material for conversation between you and other girls of your age. Such subjects are too sacred to discuss by vulgar thoughts and talking.

SOCIETY

Mrs. George Bonham will receive the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at her home, 1512 Fifth street. Miss Cora Cadot will lead the devotionals. Mrs. J. G. Hartlage will have charge of the mystery box. The assistant hostesses will be Mrs. T. C. Beatty, Mrs. Henry Becker, Mrs. Theodore Bauer, Mrs. Kate Loft, Mrs. John Lutz, Mrs. Elizabeth Lowry and Mrs. Pauline Livingston. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. J. Leigh Watkins, Jr., returned Saturday night from a several weeks' visit with relatives in Wellston. She will continue her visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. Leigh Watkins, Sr., of Timmonsville, before returning to her home in Hammond, Ind.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Ray of 1731 Robinson avenue entertained at dinner yesterday in honor of the twentieth birthday anniversary of the former's mother, Mrs. Marie Ray, of Vinton avenue. The table was prettily appointed and places were marked for three nephews of the honor guest and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. William McCurdy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCurdy, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCurdy, a great nephew, Mr. Russell McCurdy, and a great niece, Little Clara Carolyn Appel. After dinner the time was spent informally in piano and saxophone music. Clara Carolyn Appel also sang a number of songs.

The Joseph Spencer Chapter D. A. R. will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. James A. Hager. The assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Agnes Rowe, Mrs. Ida McCall, Miss Mary Little, Misses Mary and Elsie Watkins.

Miss Sara McMahon of Columbus, who has been visiting friends in Ironton is now the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Emma Dugle of Gallia street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Carson of Summit street entertained yesterday with an elaborate course dinner in honor of Herbert T. Wheeler, who is leaving soon for Arkansas City, Kansas. Covers were laid for Messrs. Herbert T. Wheeler, H. Clay Mitchell, Wesley G. Carson, Bobbin Carson, Mrs. Wesley Carson and mother, Mrs. Belle Carson, and Miss Ruth Carson.

The regular monthly meeting of the A.H. Society of the Lucasville M. E. church was held at the home of Mrs. David Appel of Scioto Trail with Mrs. John Bernhold, Mrs. George Appel, Mrs. Ansin Taylor and Mrs. An Moulton as assistant hostesses. The home was decorated in keeping with the Valentine season. After the meeting the society was entertained with a beautiful solo by Mrs. George Martin and several selections were rendered on the piano by Mrs. Henry Frowine. Mr. Howard Frowine also sang a couple of songs. He has a very pleasing voice and delighted his audience. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Bernhold of Lucasville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jones of 507 Washington street had as dinner guests Sunday Messrs. A. J. Kaudley of Pittsburgh, Pa., and C. M. McAlpin.

The husbands of the members of the Merry Twelfth Club will be honor guests at a dinner to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stachler, 824 Sixth street, Thursday evening.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The doughnut, looking very solemn and important, made a bow and sat down.

THERE were more speeches at the party than the twins could remember. They were very over so much interested. Baskins said that he'd heard better poetry, but after all no one ever mixed food with art and it wasn't to be expected. The next speech was made by a doughnut, which said this: "Foolish little Jack a Spandy. Stuffed on forty kinds of candy. He ate all day 'til late at night. He had to groan at every bite. Jack would never mind his mother. At one doughnut after 'nother. Bought a big green sour pickle. At the grocers for a nickel. Doctor came with bitter pills. Jack a Spandy had the chills. Stomach ache and dizzy head. Deed he had to stay in bed. 'Stead of clothes he wears a plaster. No food only oil of cedar. Some sad day he'll up and die. 'N' folks will wonder why, oh why." The doughnut, looking very solemn and important, made a bow and sat down. The twins looked thoughtful. "That was sort of like a sermon, wasn't it, Mr. Baskins?" said Nick. "Yes," nodded Baskins. "The party-man ought to have it printed and sent around to all the greedy little boys and girls down on the earth."

"There were flowers there, too, or rather flower fabrics. The artful fairy came forward in her lovely pale pink dress and said: "I'm just a little flower. As all of you can see, I'm very shy and very sweet. Afraid of all I chance to meet. So this is all of me." Baskins looked at his watch, which was very impolite, but necessary. "We must get back to the apple-tree elevator," said he, "and return to earth. We must make our adieus to our host."

The privilege of meeting in Room 104, high school was thoroughly enjoyed by the Seice County Center of the Woman's National Foundation on Saturday afternoon when a good representation of the membership was present. After a short business session, over which the chairman, Mrs. Samuel Overhous, presided, the audience repaired to the auditorium where Foster Kraker sang, "By The Waters of Minnetonka" and "Swingin' Through." He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Oleta Albertson. The Adams sisters of Boston, Mass., gave two readings, "The Courtship of Elvawalla" and "After the Prayer," and a group of girls under the direction of Miss Mary Griffin gave some beautiful aesthetic exercises to piano accompaniment of Miss Moore of Sciotoville.

Guests besides the artists who were on the program included Miss Lillian Coates, Mrs. Ernest Kidd, Miss Judith Quasser, Prof. Frank Appel and Edward Brockstein of Pittsburgh.

The chairman hopes to have the program from headquarters by the next meeting which will be at the same place on the first Saturday afternoon in March. Members may come in between now and March without paying an initiation fee.

Mrs. Robert Cullen will entertain the members of the Mizpah class of the Franklin Avenue M. E. church tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the White Shrine of Jerusalem will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Adolph Graf, 1733 Baird avenue.

Mrs. J. L. Marsh will welcome the members of the First Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon, at two o'clock, at her home, 1526 Fifth street.

All members of the Community chorus are requested to be present at the rehearsal this evening at seven o'clock in the basement of the library. Work on "Elfin" will be started this evening and it is hoped all members will be present. Any new members who would like to join the chorus are urged to come to the meeting tonight, as it will be impossible to start in on this new work later than the first of March. The Community chorus committee will meet at 8:45 o'clock.

Among Groupup visitors here the past few days were Mrs. H. L. Rice, Mrs. Sallie Bennett Powell, Miss Jeanette Cole, Mrs. P. J. Leslie and R. H. Smith.

Mrs. G. C. Stewart and daughter, Betty Joan, of Gallia street, were dinner guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Abenango of Eleventh street.

The Children's Mission Band of Bigelow M. E. church will hold a Valentine party in the primary room of the church Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Each child is asked to bring a penny valentine.

GREATER STRENGTH Fewer Spoonfuls

The value of baking powder is based on its leavening strength. You can't judge it by the size of the can—or by the amount you get for your money. You must estimate it by the amount of baking powder used in each baking and the results you get.

is the greatest value ever offered in Baking Powder—it has greater raising "force"—it goes farther than many of the other brands. You use only a rounded or heaping teaspoonful where many others call for two teaspoonfuls or more.

But Baking Powder is not all you'll save when using Calumet. You save baking materials. Calumet never fails. The last level teaspoonful is as powerful as the first. Calumet is perfectly manufactured—keeps perfectly—and is moderate in price.

You save when you buy it. You save when you use it.

One trial will satisfy you of these facts—and demonstrate beyond doubt that "Calumet spells economy."

Your grocer sells it on a guarantee of money back if you are not pleased with results.

Calumet contains only such ingredients as have been approved officially by the U. S. Food Authorities.

HIGHEST QUALITY AWARDS

OBSERVE THIS

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

GIRLS! LEMONS

WHITEN HANDS

Press the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter-pint of harmless and delightful lemon-bleach lotion to soften and whiten red, rough or chapped hands. This home-made lemon lotion is far superior to glycerine and rose water to smoothen the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy white complexion, because it doesn't irritate.

Epochal Treaties

U. S. Gets Cable Rights

By one of the uncompleted treaties agreed to in substance during the conference, Japan gives the United States the long sought cable and wireless privileges on the island of Yap, and by the other the five principal powers and the Netherlands allocate the former German-owned cables in the Pacific so that one goes to the United States, one to Japan and one to the Netherlands.

Resolutions Outlined

Briefly, the fourteen resolutions given conference approval, embody the following decisions:

Agreement for withdrawal of foreign post offices from China on January 1, 1922, provided China maintains an efficient postal service and continues in office the present foreign co-director general.

Establishment of an international commission to investigate the Chinese judicial system with a view to abolition of extra-territorial rights.

Authorization for a consultation between foreign diplomats and Chinese officials at Peking, with a view to withdrawal of foreign troops from China.

Relinquishment to China of unauthorized foreign radio stations, on Chinese soil, with the stipulation that all plants are to be used for official messages only except in emergency.

Agreement to exchange full information among the nations regarding all international commitments that affect China.

Creation of a board of reference, to consider cases arising under the open door and railway provisions of the general Far Eastern treaty.

To Govern Warfare
Conveying of a special commission of the five powers to meet in the near future and consider rules to govern the use of new agencies of warfare. By a second resolution on the same subject, it is declared that the commission shall not "review or report upon" the submarine and poison gas rules laid down in the treaty on that subject.

Recommendation that "better protection" be given the Chinese eastern railway. Another resolution attached, but not subscribed to by China, declares the Chinese government must be held responsible for its obligations.

Expression of hope that the Chinese railways may be developed toward a unified system under Chinese control.

Request on the part of the other powers that China reduce her military forces.

Supplementary agreement to the naval limitation treaty, declaring the nations "in honor bound" not to dispose of ships which are listed for scrapping, before the treaty is ratified.

Supplementary agreement to the four power Pacific treaty, excluding the islands of the Japanese home land from the treaty provisions.

Declarations Made
Of the "declarations" made by the various delegations and formally spread on the records of the conference, chief interest attached to those relating to Siberia and the "twenty-one demands," regarding Siberia, Japan discovered any territorial designs on Russia, and pledged herself to withdraw her troops from Siberia as conditions warrant. While the United States reasserted its hope that the withdrawal would not be long delayed, the famous "Group Five" of the twenty-one demands was also discussed by Japan along with other questions relating to economic and political conditions in Manchuria and Mongolia. China filed a protest against the remaining portions of the "demands" and the United States reiterated its intention not to recognize any of them which might alter the American rights.

British Makes Offer
The British declaration of readiness to withdraw from the leased territory of Wei-Hai-Wei was not elaborated, but will be taken up in diplomatic exchanges between London and Peking.

China Makes Promise
As a supplement to the Far Eastern treaty, China declared her intention not to alienate any additional portions of her territory, and as a supplement to the tariff treaty she agreed to retain the present maritime customs system. In two supplements to the radio resolution China declared she recognized no right to install foreign radio plants without her express consent, and the powers other than China, declared that in future wireless dispatches the open door policy will be applied.

considered so important that he had been limited from the motion picture "tail" where he was at work, with such speed that he had not time to remove the make-up from his face. At the same time two motion picture employees, one a camera man, also were taken to jail as possible material witnesses.

Machine Seen Near Taylor Place
These actions resulted from a report that the actor's automobile, a distinctively constructed and painted machine, had been seen near the Taylor apartments the night of the murder. The actor was questioned for two hours, but was unable to tell definitely where he was at the time Taylor was killed, and was hurried to the dead man's apartment for a re-enactment of the crime as the officers had reconstructed it. But residents of the same longshore court, who previously stated that they had seen a man skulking near the Taylor home the night he was killed, were unable to designate the actor as that man. He was released, instructed to keep in touch with the officers. The men taken as possible material witnesses were given their freedom again. Yet the officers said, the actor admitted ownership of the automobile in question.

Possessed Women's Silk Lingerie
While these military men develop, rules came to the police of the alleged possession by Taylor of women's silk lingerie, one piece of which, a pink night robe, was reported missing from his apartments since his body was found. One witness was said to have stated, but not to the police, that this particular robe had the embroidered initials of a motion picture actress.

Close upon the heels of these declarations came the report that the police were searching for a drug peddler, who, it was hinted, had sought through Taylor to make delivery of drugs to an actress who found it difficult to make her purchases direct. The initials of the actress connected with this phase of the case were said to be the same as those on the night robe reported missing from the Taylor apartments.

Arms Meet

order after 10 o'clock this morning to hear a farewell address by President Harding and for the signing of the remaining treaties.

Biggest Crowd of Conference
The final session brought out the largest crowd of the conference. Scores sat in the aisles and stood around the walls. Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Coolidge and other wives of officials had seats in the boxes.

The session was called to order at 10:02 o'clock, with a prayer by the Rev. William Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, when President Harding attended.

And, applause Secretary Hughes announced that the Shanghai treaty between Japan and China had been signed Saturday.

Hughes First To Sign
"The treaties will now be signed," announced Secretary Hughes, and the American delegation filed around the foot of the big green topped table of the secretary-general's desk inside the inclosure and began signing. Secretary Hughes completed his signature at 10:12 o'clock.

The signing was in this order: the United States, Belgium, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, China and Portugal.

The signing of the last of the documents was completed by American delegates at 10:16 a. m.

British Sign Treaties
To save time the red wax seals had been affixed previously and conference attaches standing at the elbows of the delegates pointed where each was to write his name. Belgium was next and Baron DeCartier, the only Belgian delegate, took his place as Elton Root arose from the table. He had two treaties to sign, the general Far Eastern and the Chinese tariff.

The seven British delegates headed by Mr. Balfour signed next. They affixed their signatures to all five documents.

Mr. Balfour signed at 10:22 o'clock. There was prolonged applause as the seven British delegates marched around to the signing place. While the British delegation was signing, motion picture photographs were taken.

President Harding had not arrived while the signing was in progress.

At 10:32 the Chinese succeeded the British at the table and began signing. China is party only to the Far Eastern and the tariff treaties and her three delegates finished signing them at 10:37.

France Signs
Albert Sarraut and Jules Jusserand the only two French delegates remaining in Washington, followed the Chinese and finished signing the treaties and the supplements in which France is concerned at 10:38.

Senator Schanzer, Ambassador Rieck and Senator Albertini for Italy had four treaties, but no supplements to sign. They completed at 10:42 a. m.

Japanese Applauded
To the accompaniment of a round of applause, the three Japanese filed around the table. Baron Kato signed first, finishing at 10:40. Baron Shidehara and Vice Foreign Minister Hanabusa, followed, each signing his name to all five documents.

President Harding arrived while the Japanese were signing, but waited in a cloak room for the ceremony to be completed. Minister DeLoane and Junkieer Van Bokland, the two delegates of the Netherlands, finished signing at 10:49. Their government was a party only to the two Far Eastern treaties.

Vicecount d'Almeida and Captain Vasconcelos, the Portuguese delegates, also had two treaties to sign and they finished at 10:50. That ended the signing.

Applause for Harding
President Harding then entered the hall a minute later. Audience and delegates rose and applauded for a half minute, while the president bowed his appreciation to all sides. Without an introduction, the president began reading his address.

Pope Elected

Proclaims Pope's Election
Meanwhile the dean of the cardinal deacons, Bistelli, followed by several cardinals, repaired to the central balcony of St. Peter's from which the elections of scores of popes have been officially proclaimed to the world, and solemnly announced to the great crowd awaiting below:

"I announce to your great joy the election of the pontiff."

It was a striking scene as Pope Pius made his first appearance at the front of St. Peter's. As his holiness gave the benediction, the assembled troops presented arms.

This confirmed to the throngs in St. Peter's square the election which had been indicated by the thin stream of white smoke which came from the metal stove pipe projecting from the roof of the sistine chapel when the voting papers of the final ballot were burned.

Bestows Public Benediction
Meanwhile, Pope Pius XI, after waiting for some moments in the Clementine Hall, had left for St. Peter's, accompanied by the members of the Sacred College.

Arriving at the balcony at the entrance inside the cathedral he raised his hand and bestowed upon the multitude his first public benediction. He then returned to the vaulted, where, although reigning, the popes have remained virtual prisoners until their deaths.

COURT HOUSE

Dismissed For Lack of Proof

Judge Thomas, after hearing the evidence in the divorce and alimony suit of Ella Swords, 3878 Rhodes avenue, New Boston, against Robert Swords, steelworker, dismissed the plaintiff's petition for lack of convincing evidence in support of her charges of neglect, cruelty and infidelity.

They were married in May, 1914, and have two children, and the wife claimed Swords had abused her.

Leppin Will Filed

Application to admit to probate a will executed on Oct. 15, 1919, by Fred Leppin, for many years a resident of Portsmouth and South Webster, who died recently at his home in Cincinnati, was filed in probate court Monday by Attorney A. T. Holcomb.

Under the terms of his will Mr. Leppin left his estate, consisting entirely of personal property, with an estimated value of about $5,000, to his widow, Mrs. Berge Leppin, and their five children.

Children Committed To Home; Mothers Sent To Jail

Evelyn Vance, 10, and Wilma Miller, 5, children of Mrs. Lola Miller, and Paul Shonkwiler, 12, son of Mrs. Marie A. Shonkwiler, were adjudged neglected and dependent children at a hearing in juvenile court Monday and Judge Gilliland committed them to the Children's Home and then sent the mothers to jail for ten days for contempt of court.

Mrs. Shonkwiler and Mrs. Miller are sisters and they live at 433 Fifth

Commissioners In Session

The county commissioners were in session Monday and the members, J. H. Appel, W. O. Shively and Jacob Kuhner spent the day principally in allowing the schedule and signing vouchers. The board will be in session again Tuesday which is designated as "trouble day" and a number of delegations from the rural districts are expected to appear to register complaints.

Deceit Denied; Petition Dismissed

After hearing the evidence in the divorce and alimony suit of Emma Rössinger against Charles Rössinger in Common Pleas court Monday, Judge Thomas made a finding that the plaintiff failed to establish her charge of cruelty with that degree of proof necessary and which resulted in the dismissal of her petition. They were married in July, 1920, but have been separated for several months.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH NEWS

Elder J. N. Ramey of the First Christian church preached at King's Addition Christian church Sunday morning. At 2:00 o'clock a Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor was organized which will materially aid in the religious education of the folks at that place.

Miner Lee Bates President of Hiram college spoke at First Christian Sunday morning and at New Boston Christian church Sunday evening in the interest of the establishment of a chair of religious education in Hiram college. Good audiences greeted him at both meetings.

A conference of Bible school workers from Seabrook, and from together with the workers of First Christian held a conference in the local Christian church Sunday afternoon with Miner Lee Bates president of Hiram college, and W. G. Jones, state Sunday school Secretary for the Disciples of Christ. The object of the conference was to arrive at some estimate of the contribution which each school could make toward the foundation for the Jesse Brown Pomps chair of religious education at Hiram.

W. G. Jones preached a splendid sermon last evening, appealing especially for the education of the boys and girls. "Make the world safe for the boys and girls" was the slogan he offered.

Tonight, Monday, at 7:30 the official board will meet at the church. This is an important meeting and every member should make an effort to be there.

Tuesday evening, 7:15 the Loyal Men will hold their regular meeting at the church. At this time a mock trial will be one of the stunts pulled off by the men and the entire Bible school has been invited. The meeting will be in the lecture rooms of the church.

Wednesday evening, the three C. E. Societies will have the prayer meeting in charge. Each Society will have some definite part on the program. It. C. Holbrook, president of the Loyal C. E. will direct the meeting.

Thursday evening, the Christian Endeavorers will hold their annual winter picnic at the church in the basement. Supper will be served at six and a good time had the rest of the evening. All members and friends of the society are invited.

Friday evening, 7:30, choir practice at the church. All members of the choir and those who expect to be in choir for the coming evangelistic meeting are urged to be present and take part in this practice.

Lovely are the Fabrics of the Mid-Winter Mode

HAVE you visited our Piece-Goods Department within the last few days? It is all aflutter with new crepes, new satins, new silken weaves, lovely fabrics that instantly suggest just the frock you need to freshen your winter wardrobe.

You, yourself, can transform these charming materials into the smartest and most economical clothes you have ever owned! To begin with, our prices set a new standard of moderation, and coupled with this saving comes a wonderful new economy—yes, an economy never possible before—the economy of The Belrobe, that wonderful picture-guide enclosed with the Designer Pattern. This marvelous Belrobe saves you 50c to $10 on every frock you make and guides your needle to the very lines of Paris—all in these three simple steps.

First, The Belrobe gives you an individual layout chart, not the usual chart for an average size and an average width of material, but a helpful chart for your exact size and for each width of suitable material. It is because of this chart that your Designer Pattern calls for 15 to 18 1/2 yards less than would otherwise be possible—a saving of 50c to $10 on materials!

Then, The Belrobe shows you how to put your garment together with the skill and exactness of an expert. Every step is planned by simple pictures. As you follow with your needle a creation grows beneath your fingers.

And finally, The Belrobe imparts Paris' own touch in finish. It shows you those clever finishing touches that make your frock look as though it just stepped over from Paris.

Every department in our store is keeping pace with our Piece Goods and Pattern Department. Every one is displaying new arrivals—new values!

McDERMOTT MAN WHIRLED TO DEATH WHEN CAUGHT IN BELT

William Carpenter, 35, of McDermott, was almost instantly killed Saturday while at work in a Cincinnati plant. He was caught in a moving roller belt when he attempted to adjust it and became entangled in it, his body being whirled around several times, death coming within a few seconds.

Carpenter had been at the Cincinnati Building Company's plant, 2222 Spring Grove avenue, Cincinnati, for about two months. He left McDermott about two months ago to work in the Cincinnati Company's big stone, brick work and masonry plant.

William Carpenter was born and grew up in McDermott, where he was well known. He had worked at different times about the stone quarries and mills at McDermott.

His wife passed away about four years ago. His father was Turner Carpenter, who passed away some time ago. Surviving are three children between 12 and 7 years of age; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Carpenter; three brothers, Frank Carpenter at home in McDermott; Charles, of West Virginia, and George, of McDermott; and two sisters, Mrs. Dale Varine and Mrs. Flora Martin, of Portsmouth.

The body arrived at McDermott Sunday and funeral services were held at Insitown this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

C. E. Societies Celebrating Anniversary

Seventy thousand Christian Endeavor Societies throughout the world are celebrating, this week, the anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Second Presbyterian church, together with the auxiliary societies, the Senior and Intermediate, are celebrating the week. Last night in all societies the subject "Christian Endeavor Around the World" was discussed.

discussed, Wesley P. Kidenour led the discussion.

Thursday night at 7:30 the Christian Endeavor will entertain socially at the church for the members of the Young People's Society.

On Sunday night at seven o'clock the concluding service of the week's celebration will be held. Three Christian Endeavor Societies of the church will participate in the service. Special music by an augmented choir and by the combined Christian Endeavor Societies will be given.

Wesley P. Kidenour, president of the Scioto County Christian Endeavor Union; Miss Pearl V. Eichberger, prominent attorney; and Mr. William Wiley Young, assistant pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, will be the speakers of the evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Smallpox Situation Improves; Health Report

The small-pox situation in the north-eastern part of the county is very much improved, Dr. K. W. DeCrow, county health commissioner, told the County Health Board in session at the Court House Monday.

The health commissioner stated that only a few families are still under quarantine and a sporadic case appearing now and then in the out-lying districts but said that every one should still use all caution and make every effort to assist the health authorities to keep this disease down. The commissioner also issued a warning to all persons who sell meat for domestic use, not to slaughter any animals that are or have been sick of any condition making them unfit for human consumption. All pork should be well cured and cooked before served, he said.

AUTO CLUB TO STAGE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Directors and committee members of the Portsmouth Automobile Club met at a luncheon held Monday noon at the Mary Louise rooms. The meeting was presided over by President W. A. Pepper. The greater part of the time was given over to discussion of plans for the approaching membership drive that will be staged by the Club in an effort to enroll 1,000 members.

This number of members is needed in order to have the club function as a big city club. The exact dates have not been decided upon for the membership drive but all preliminary plans are being laid now so that there will be no delay when the time comes for the drive to begin. The luncheon and meeting was well attended.

Emory V. Carver Placed On Trial

Emory V. Carver, monument dealer on Offshore street, was put on trial before Judge Thomas and a jury in Common Pleas court Monday afternoon under an indictment for alleged shooting with intent to kill or wound Melvin C. Dixon on the night of Dec. 27, 1921.

The state claimed that jealousy was the cause of the shooting which occurred at the home of Mrs. Loda Hughes, Gallia and Glover streets, the contention being made that Carver had been keeping company with Mrs. Hughes and that when he caught Dixon in her home opened fire on him. Dixon was shot in the foot. Carver, who was defended by Attorneys Funk and Hostetter, claimed that he only shot to scare Dixon and disclaimed all intention of killing or wounding him.

J. S. Johnson Is Claimed By Death

Friends will be shocked to learn of the death of J. S. Johnson, well known automobile dealer of 804 Chillicothe street who died Saturday night at 11 o'clock at the Ohio Valley hospital Steubenville after a few days' illness of pneumonia. He left Portsmouth Dec. 20 to visit his daughter Mrs. Grace Sprouse, at Steubenville before going to Florida for his health. He was taken ill suddenly Friday, January 27 and was removed to the Steubenville hospital. His condition grew worse last week and on Friday his brother J. A. Johnson, of this city and sister-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Johnson, of Otway, went to his bedside.

They remained in constant attendance at his bedside and were with him when the end came.

J. S. Johnson was 55 years of age November 17 last. He was born at Wamsley, where he spent the early part of his life on the farm. He came to Portsmouth when about 27 years of age and after a short time here went to Piketon where he was salesman for a Zanowesville firm for some time. In 1917 he came back to Portsmouth and engaged in the automobile sales and repair business at 804 Chillicothe street. His brother J. A. Johnson later engaged in business with him the style of the firm being Johnson Brothers.

Mr. Johnson had made a careful study of the automobile business and was a man who kept himself well informed on everything new in the automobile world. He had many friends here who will be shocked to learn of his death.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Grace Sprouse of Steubenville, Mrs. Effie Farmer of Piketon, Mrs. Olive Holt of Richmondale, one sister-in-law Mrs. W. H. Johnson, of Otway and a brother, J. A. Johnson of 2134 Grandview avenue.

Mr. Johnson was a member of the Masonic bodies here.

The body will arrive here tonight about eight o'clock and will be taken to the home of the brother J. A. Johnson, 2134 Grandview, where friends may view the remains until Tuesday afternoon when the body will be taken to Wamsley M. E.

John Smith, a well known Carey's Run man, was arrested Monday by county officers and brought before Squire Morgan for alleged violating the prohibition laws by manufacturing some sort of a fermented liquor containing corn, raisins and other ingredients.

Attorney T. E. Beatty, for the accused, contended that the liquor manufactured by Smith was in the nature of wine, which the law permitted him to make for his own personal use. It was claimed. After hearing from both sides the court took the case under advisement and released the defendant on his own recognizance.

ROME, February 6.—(By The Associated Press)—Pope Pius' first benediction after his election today was bestowed from the outside balcony of St. Peter's, "upon all nations and all peoples," with the intention that it "should bring to the whole world the wish and announcement for that universal pacification we all so ardently desire."

Meet Tonight

Tonight in Macedonia's Hall one of the biggest meetings of recent months is expected to be held by the Knights of Macedonia. President William Pressler has sent out a number of notices in order to get out a big attendance for tonight, when Great Record Keeper George H. Scott of Newark, will be present to outline plans for the big membership campaign that will start at once. Deputy E. M. Doran, of Columbus, will be here to direct the membership campaign. A speaker will conclude tonight's session.

The announcement shortly after mid-day that a new pope had been elected came as a great surprise to the thousands who thronged St. Peter's square. The surprise was particularly evident among the numerous Americans in the crowd, as the Rome newspapers and officials connected with the Vatican had convinced that no announcement would be given until after the arrival of Cardinal Ottaviani and his entrance into the conclave.

The new pope was one of the latest cardinals created by the late Benedict. Only six months have passed since he succeeded Cardinal Ferrari as archbishop of Milan. He has been one of the strongest supporters of Benedict's policy of reconciliation between the Quirinal and the Vatican.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darned Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautiful, fully darkened glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at one drug store for "Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will see a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at any little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it dardens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Blair Down To Hard Work

Kid Smith of Huntington probably will be Nig Blair's opponent after his scrap with Earl Butler of Cincinnati. Blair is a real fighter and Blair is in earnest training for his next match with Butler in the Auditorium on February 17. The dark skinned youth realizes that he must be in tip-top shape to win from the Cincinnati or take a step backward pugilistically speaking and Blair says he is not going to do this.

State Men Free From Professionalism

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 6.—"So far as we know none of our athletes has indulged in outside athletics," declared Athletic Director L. W. St. John of Ohio State. "But we would have been just as thoroughly as Illinois or Notre Dame if such were the case."

"We would take such action, not because of the stand of those schools, but because college athletics demands it. We have tried to impress upon our men the necessity for being strictly above board and we would not tolerate any other conditions for a minute if we knew it."

TRACK SCHEDULE IS AMBITIOUS

COLUMBUS, O., February 6.—Two indoor and perhaps six outdoor meets constitute Ohio State's 1922 track schedule which has just been sanctioned by the athletic board. The Buckeyes will oppose Ohio Wesleyan in a dual contest at Delaware. The date has not been set. The Scarlet and Gray institution also will be represented at the Big Ten indoor championships to be held March 17 and 18 at Chicago.

Carnegie Tech, a new comer, has been added to the list of Buckeye opponents for a dual meet here May 13th. On May 24th the Ohioans will make their biennial bow at Michigan. An opponent is yet to be secured for May 29th and 30th. On May 26 and 27 annual Big Six will be held here. The Ohioans will participate in the Penn relays and the outdoor Big Ten Championships also.

JUST CHATTER

The competition for supremacy has become keen in college athletics.

The desire to win has become the paramount issue. Coaches and athletes in an effort to bring about that result have seemingly overstepped themselves.

Sportsmanship has been relegated to the sidelines. Victory at any cost, financial or otherwise, seems to be the aim of a majority of the colleges.

First came the charges of professionalism against the Lafayette College eleven. A number of eastern critics refused to give Lafayette the rating it deserved, because of rumors that some of the athletes were not in the best standing as amateurs.

Lafayette invited an inquiry into the charges. It was held, and as I recall it, the athletes under suspicion were white-washed.

The scene then shifted to the west. For the past month sensation after sensation has been sprung, involving a number of the leading athletes of the west. Most of them have been declared ineligible.

Recently Coach McKee of Notre Dame whose teams were hard hit, said: "Professionalism is the biggest menace of college athletics. Unless the tendency in that direction is curbed it may be necessary to abolish football as an intercollegiate sport."

Long before the collegiate expose, Coach Yost of Michigan, in an interview, said to me:

"Football is being overdone by many colleges. The impression is growing that students go to college to make the football team. Men go to college for an education. The colleges make football possible, not football the colleges. Some coaches are overlooking that fact."

For years A. M. Langford has been recognized as one of the best football officials in the country. Langford practically quit officiating in 1921 because he said the treatment now being accorded an official was not what it should be.

Before one game he was told how he had for three years beaten a certain eleven out of an important game. During the game the other side cursed him out. After the game the coach of one of the teams told him he was cracked.

A number of things have tended to bring about the present abuses that now exist in intercollegiate athletics, football in particular.

The great interest that the public has taken in football, that was once merely a college sport, has changed the game into a big spectacle, attended by as many as $50,000 at one time.

The big receipts have tended to commercialize the sport. Coaches, desiring that a successful year financially depended on turning out a winning team, have put results ahead of sportsmanship.

Financial pressure has caused undesirable conditions to creep into college football just as they did into college baseball. College athletics are in for a readjustment. A number of reforms must be made. It is up to the college heads to work for them.

On third, one man out. The batter hits a fly ball to the left field. Runner on third holds base. The ball is caught, then starts back to plate. Catcher blocks off the plate as the slider into the plate. The ball has passed over the runner. The runner is out. This was done before the pitcher had received the ball. The pitcher is miffed by the catch. He keeps the runner from touching the plate and finally touches the runner. Should the runner be permitted to touch the plate?

The catcher has no right to block the runner off the plate without having the ball in his possession. Such action on the part of the catcher or the runner coming in from third is illegal. The fact that he was blocked out before reaching the plate should be given no consideration. The catcher's action constituted interference.

President Of Hiram College Fills First Christian Pulpit

The members of the First Christian church and Bible school were signally honored Sunday, by a visit from Minister Lee Bates, president of Hiram college, and W. G. Loucks, state Bible school superintendent. They were here in the interest of the establishment of a chair of Religious Education and Literature in Hiram college, in memory of Jessie Brown Pounds, the writer of more than 600 religious songs, many of which are regarded with great favor among the religious denominations throughout the world. Her most noted contribution was, perhaps, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," sung at the funeral services of President William McKinley. It is stated that more than one million phonograph records have been made from this one song. Mrs. Pounds, who passed away at Hiram last March, is regarded as the greatest woman among the Disciples of Christ. The First Christian Bible school will give $1500.00 toward the endowment of the chair. Other Disciple churches will also aid in this worthy movement.

President Bates spoke at the Bible school session and filled the pulpit at the morning services. He is without doubt one of the really great

The manufacturers guarantee "Brednut" to be made in an entirely new method and to be sweet, wholesome and nutritious. It is stated under the manu-

Things Humming In Ironton Baseball Camp

IRONTON, Feb. 6.—With the season drawing near, things are beginning to hum in the local baseball line. Jimmy Campbell and Dick Smith, well known local baseball men, have begun work on the organization of what they claim will be one of the best baseball teams that ever represented Ironton on the diamond.

The managers have been receiving numerous letters from the various club officials of the circuit in and West Virginia, each containing an offer for a game at any date or dates convenient. Nothing as yet has been done on the line of schedule making as the first task on the part of the managers is to give the home folks a chance providing the part is put in playing condition. If this is done, some of the leading teams in this section will be seen in action, such as clubs from Cincinnati, Columbus, and other leaders in the diamond circles.

Cohan Has Unique Views On Baseball

In Two Weeks
Is Spring coming? Sure, the Giants pitchers report for training in Texas south this season.

In two weeks and all the Giants will be in training in three weeks. McGraw is going to take 35 players south this season.

BY GEORGE M. COHAN
I have been a baseball fan all my life.

Ever since I was a kid I have cherished the idea of owning a big league ball club.

I have honestly tried to buy three or four clubs. However, I have never been successful.

Some people have said my offers were not real, that I was simply seeking some publicity, advertising for my theatrical ventures.

I believe most people will agree that I am a pretty much advertised young man. I feel sure they will also agree that my publicity I received from offering to buy a ball club wouldn't have any particular effect on my business status.

Some time I may acquire a major league ball club. If I ever do I have a few reforms which I intend to institute.

Don't misunderstand me, I am not going to offer any playing reforms. The brand of baseball that is now being played suits me pretty well.

I know a lot of people are going to laugh when they read this chapter. I like to make 'em laugh and leave 'em that way.

For Clean Uniforms
I am first for clean uniforms. If there is anything more disgusting than a baseball uniform that looks as if it never was laundered, I would like to know what it is.

On second thought I believe a chorus girl in a costume that has seen better days is even worse.

That is one thing I have always been very fussy about in my productions. The costumes must be kept clean and in good condition.

I have seen some ball players wear undershirts that simply reeked with dirt and perspiration. How they can stand such garments next to their skin is a mystery to me.

Major league ball clubs makes a lot of money. It wouldn't cost very much to have four sets of uniforms instead of two. That would enable a team to constantly have a clean set of uniforms in reserve.

Game Needs More Action
Of course players perspire in the summer and sliding is part of the game. Baseball suits are bound to get soiled, but a change a week would remedy much of the objection that I have to uniforms as worn in the majors today.

I think the game could stand more action. The deaf and dumb catcher should be abolished. Give us more coaches like Hugley Jennings, Nick Altrock and the late Herman Schaefer.

More action, I believe, is the crying need of baseball.

With due modesty I feel that I first put "pop" in the chorus of a musical production. Now all producers regard "pop" as the basic principle for any good chorus.

I would have the players hurry in and out as they change linings. Baseball needs more "pop."

Can't Stand the Quitter
The fans don't like to see some player walk to his position just as if he didn't care whether school kept or not. Run in and out.

I would inject some dope into the slow working pitchers, whose only motive in so doing is to annoy the batter, affect his power of concentration and thereby lessen his batting ability.

The great pitchers like Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander all are fast workers.

I have only two thoughts that bear on the playing end.

I would insist that my manager copped every player to run out every hit. I can't forgive the "quitter."

A player comes to the bat only four or five times in every game, so it isn't much of a task to insist that he run out every hit.

Fight the opposing players, not the umpire, is my other suggestion for better baseball. If some players would use some of the energy on the field that they waste on the umpire they would be better ball players.

FIGHT TONIGHT

Billy Ryan and Johnny Tiltman swap punches in a ten round battle in Cincinnati tonight. Tiltman has not all the topnotchers in his class and Ryan will have his hands full tonight beating the eastern boxer, who is a rugged chap with a six-year under swallo.

THE ONWARD MARCH

NO one saying the world isn't getting "gooder"; it is, very fast, by law and the statute in such cases made and provided, together with numerous uplift movements.

First on the list, of course, is prohibition. Then there is the congressional act taking over the business of penalizing counties in which lynchings take place.

Trailing along with the arid amendment is a powerful and prayerful effort to inhibit entirely the use of tobacco, the cigarette being already largely under the ban.

In embryo is the putting in the prescribed calendar the selling to children under sixteen candy, or any sort of sweet-eats, and, oh, horror or horrors, chewing gum and ice cream appearing as victims in the offing.

But the sublimation of all in goodness in the embargo congress proposes to lay upon newspapers, making the printing of any sort of horse racing in their columns an act of darkest felony.

Yes, siree, we are rapidly and ferociously getting gooder by the be it enacted and section so and route, but, and that's strange we hear no wings fluttering, we can't even see them sprouting with the microscopic journalistic eye that is ever searching for the beautiful and the true.

SOME SOUND ADVICE

ANTICIPATING the passage of a bonus bill by congress, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon advises that body that funds to make the payments accruing should be raised by new taxes, in the main by increased postage of first and second class matter.

Such advice will not tend to make the official any more popular than he already has, and it will scarce be claimed he possesses a surplus stock thereof. By no means, however, is this remark to be taken as a reflection upon his service. If he has done nothing notable he has certainly done well in the suggestions he has from time to time advanced to congress. Indeed, such fault finding as there is with him seems to rest upon the fact that he would have a business instead of a partisan administration of his department.

Take the instance in hand. It is going to bring down on him an avalanche of criticism, but since the necessities of politics are going to compel congressmen to pass a bonus measure, even over Mr. Harding's desire and counsel, the one sensible thing then offering will be to promptly adopt Mr. Mellon's suggestion. But that will not be done, at least not with the promptness that its common sense value calls for. Some more politics has to be considered. There are big interests in this country working for a decreased postage rate and they can be expected to arrange themselves and all the resources at their command, in strenuous opposition to an increase. Likewise can all the big papers and the magazines and periodicals be set down as sure to fight increased second class postage, because it will peculiarly affect them.

The merit of the Mellon plan, and it has the highest merit, does not concern them at all. It is their own pocketbook they are going to regard.

Congress is going to show more nerve than it has given any indication of in its well nigh continuous non-performance, if it brings itself to stand out for that which is simplest and best.

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN

THE arms limitation conference, which broadened out to encompass almost every economic under the sun, has about concluded its agenda, which means it has disposed of finally, in one way or another, all matters that it agreed to consider.

In so far as its own conclusions are concerned it has accomplished considerable, it has reached agreement on important matters that are desirable, what are to be the effects of its work, in the ultimate, is entirely another question.

There were objections to the league of nations because it looked to bring about the same end by a combination of all the governments that the conference assumes to do by a league of half a dozen. Thus it becomes a question as to whether or not a part can do more than the whole. Argument on the point is wholly unnecessary.

It was asserted the American adhesion to the league of nations would bring her into entangling foreign alliances. Why it will not be the same when she enters into an agreement defensive and offensive with a few will have to be answered elsewhere. At a mere glance it looks as though a combination of half a dozen powers would arouse more jealousy and more hostility than where every government struck hands in agreement with all the rest.

In the long run it isn't going to set well with the American people to be bound hand and foot to England and Japan.

Resolving and consorting to put an end to problems and issues that have vexed the earth and torn it apart shows a commendable spirit on the surface but the wisdom of the means taken are entirely another question.

It is a pity that this can not be considered free of the bitterness aroused by the indecencies and the violence with which the fight upon the league of nations was conducted.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, February 6.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Lay late and vexed devilish over this and that. In our street a great hubbub over a building cave in. Out across the town and to see S. Shipman, the play actor, who made a great deal of curious do about my noble great coat.

For lunch at the Blue Dog tavern, a mixed gathering of ladies with fine furs and six-penny necklaces and here came Mr. Johnston, the journalist, to talk to me of public matters and I made a brave show of knowing much albeit I know nothing. In the afternoon with C. Sale, the actor, to see "Anna Christie," a good play, but not so good as people cry it up. And between the acts we saw Mr. Belasco who seemed as ever lost in thought.

Home and at my scribbling and reading my mail, which I enjoy most of all things. Dined on a chop, hot potato and beaker of whey and later to a party for Miss Ramboult and all very merry. In especial M. Connelly, who mimicked Paderewski. So home again and to bed.

The gilded tower in gloomy Madison Square Garden occupies the front pages again larking back to the days of flowered swings, splashing members perhaps of the poorest club Thaw case. This time the promoter of the garden prize fight was accused. Great changes have been wrought in the tower. I visited it the other day—stuffy rooms filled with old furniture, walls covered with cheap lithographs and the odor of decay remain. Even the scented Diana that is poised atop the tower seems to reflect the vanished glory. The Garden is the gloomiest architectural pile in Manhattan and the management has difficulty in getting watchmen for the nights, so ghostly is its interior.

Each night at 6 a tattered group of derelicts gathers in the southeast corner of Bryant Park. They are members perhaps of the poorest club in New York—the Sandwich Men's Club. They are the human driftwood of a great city mostly old men who wander about the streets caused between bonnis that carry advertisements and picking up at the most 75 cents a day. Rain or snow they meet to talk and puff their ancient pipes, then at 8 scatter to their dreary 15 cent lodging houses. Between 6 and 8 is the only time all day that they speak to a living soul. There is an abject helplessness about these down-and-outers as they trudge along through high wind, hail, sleet and snow with impenetrable expressions. Most of them live with ghosts of the past. Drink in many cases brought about the downfall but there are many too who have worked hard and lived respectable lives but never able to make headway. Just clutched at life and missed. But willing still to carry on.

The carriage starters in front of the big department stores are asking for more wages. They say that they get very few tips and then only from the occasional man shopper. Women go to the shops, spend more than they can afford and come out enveloped in resolves for thrift—so the carriage starters suffer. It is difficult in front of the night restaurants. The starters there will take the jobs for nothing but in many cases they are furnished by the hat check padrone who pays a salary and keeps the remainder received in tips. The tips for restaurant starters range from 50 cents to five dollars and the earlier in the morning the bigger the tip, they say.

When I Have Fears

By John Keats

When I have fears that I may cease to be
Before my pen has glean'd my teeming brain,
Before high piled books, in charact'ry
Hold like rich garners, the full-ripen'd grain;
When I behold, upon the night's star'd face,
Huge cloudy symbols of a high romance,
And think that I may never live to trace
Their shadows, with the magic hand of chance;
And when I feel, fair creature of an hour!
That I shall never look upon thee more,
Never have relish in the faery power
Of unreflecting love!—then on the shore
Of the wide world I stand alone, and think
Till love and fame to nothingness do sink.

"When the Devil Was Sick"

Two old gobs had been at odds ever since the day of their enlistment. They were due for discharge within a few days when one of them was taken seriously ill and the doctors broke the news to him that he had small chance to live. He summoned his old-time enemy to his bedside.

"Mac," he said plaintively, "they tells me I'm goin' to kick over. If I do, will ye forget all our fights and sort of let bygones be bygones?"

"That'll be a right," said Mac in great embarrassment.
"And, Mac," here the old gobe's voice grew stronger—"if I ever get well and ye remind me I ever said that, I'll knock that fat wooden block off yer shoulders."

How It Sounds To Read Proff On Poetry

Proofreader: As flowers without the sunshine fair—comm—so—comm—without you—comm—do I breathe a dark and dismal morn—

Copholder: Thunder: not ware—

Proofreader: I breathe a dark and dismal morn—

Copholder: Shoot the comm—

Proofreader: 'Tis done. As flowers without the sunshine fair—semicol—un—confound slug seven, he never justifies his lines—no joy in life—comm—no worms—

Copholder: Warpath.

Proofreader: No warpath I share—comm—and health—and vigorous flies—

Copholder: Blazes: health and vigor fly—

Proofreader: Health and vigor fly—comm—full stop.

The Old Order Changed

A certain actor, noted for his numerous trips to the altar, was approached by a friend on Broadway just after he had announced his intention of annexing Wife No. 7.

"Well, old son," said the friend, "I hear you're going to get married again."

"Yes," replied the actor somewhat cheerlessly. "But the good old days have gone by. I can remember the time when a fellow asked a girl to marry him and she'd answer 'Yes' right off the bat. Now she stops to ask him questions—whether she ever loved another and all that stuff."

Lost Articles Department

Mollie, who had administered the culinary affairs of the household for many years, was sometimes torn between her devotion to her mistress and her loyalty to the small son of the house.

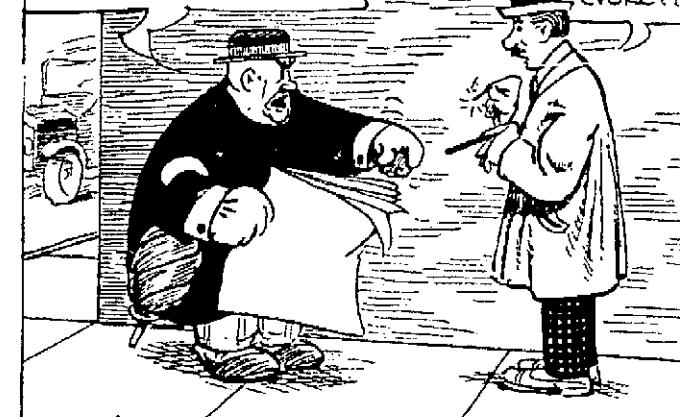

"Mollie," said her mistress one day after a tour of inspection, "whatever happened to those fine red apples I bought yesterday?"

"Well now, ma'am," answered Mollie, "I couldn't rightly say, but if ye can find where me loaf of gingerbread is, them apples would be lyin' right on top of it."

You will not use the typewriter for any but business letters.
You will sign, to letters, only your name—never any titles that you may have.
You will remember that mismatched paper and envelopes betray uncivility.

Elbe Martin

Hardly anybody went to Melodrama Hall last night, as it's said the theaters haunted by actors that starved to death there last week. One good thing about rain: it falls on the just—the same as it falls on the just.
